What is the KTRN meeting?

The Krabbe Translational Research Network (KTRN) meeting brings together a global network of cohorts to advance research in biology, chemistry, physics, and related therapeutic technologies for the purpose of advancing treatment for those diagnosed with Krabbe disease.

What is the Purpose of the KTRN?

To foster a robust exchange of ideas, discuss pre/post publication research and identify partnership opportunities to accelerate developments.

How many KTRN meetings have taken place?

A total of 9 KTRN meetings have been held in various areas of the United States since the inception of TLOAF in 2008. The 2022 will be the 10th KTRN meeting. The KTRN meeting did not occur in 2011, 2017, and 2020.

I am doing research in Krabbe disease or a closely related disease that may help aid therapeutic advancements. Can I attend?

Yes, we want to hear from you! The first step is to complete the KTRN abstract form found on our website by December 20th, 2021 and email it to stacypike@tloaf.org. The abstracts are used to select our platform speakers. If your abstract is not selected for a platform speaker position, you may be offered the opportunity to present your work during our poster session. The KTRN Steering Committee for TLOAF will notify you by Monday, January 24th, 2022 with one of the following responses: (1) you've been selected as a platform speaker; (2) you've been selected to present your work during our poster session; (3) your work at this time does not fit the needs of our meeting and we respectfully decline.

Is there a Poster Session?

Yes, we will have a poster session this year. Please submit an abstract if you are interested in participating in this part of the KTRN meeting.

Are international experts in Krabbe disease allowed to attend?

Yes! We encourage international researchers to submit an abstract form found on our website by December 20th, 2021 and email it to stacypike@tloaf.org. We will notify you by January 24th, 2022 if you've been selected to attend.

How much does it cost to attend?

TLOAF pays for platform speakers to attend the meeting. If you're interested in being an attendee, you will need to register and cover your expenses to attend.

Is Industry a part of this meeting?

Yes, please reach out to stacypike@tloaf.org expressing your interest in becoming an industry sponsor for the 2020 KTRN meeting.

Thank you! We look forward to seeing you at the 2022 KTRN meeting in Clearwater, Florida
